LifeQuest and Woodland Heights Offer New Venue for Lifelong Learning

Garrett McAinsh, retired Hendrix College history department chair, presents "Classical Athens" at Woodland Heights in October.

A capacity crowd of more than one hundred enjoyed a complimentary "white linen" luncheon in the dining room of Woodland Heights in October, where Garrett McAinsh described little-known facts about the history of the ancient Athenian culture and its effects on modern civilization. The reservation-only event was attended by the general public, LifeQuest patrons and Woodland Heights residents.

Upcoming topics and presenters for 2014 will be announced through the LifeQuest website and email blasts.

Large Turnout for Fall Classes

More than 630 people enrolled in 38 different courses offered during the fall term, one of the largest registrations in the last decade. Approximately one hundred enrollees were brand-new to LifeQuest. The parking lot of Second Presbyterian Church overflowed with vehicles, causing some to return home for lack of locating a space. We worked at getting large morning classes out on schedule to help clear some of the parking spaces for new arrivals. Some people carpooled with friends; and a church shuttle bus ran from the front steps to the nearby parking of St. James United Methodist Church. Thank you for your cooperation!

Hats off to the LifeQuest Board of Directors

Second Presbyterian Church has notified LifeQuest of a $1.00 increase for lunches served at Adventures in Learning. Prices for lunch will now be $8 each or $64 for the 8 week term. We will continue to enjoy a quality freshly prepared lunch with dessert, and, no tax or tip!

You are still welcome to bring your lunch from home if you would like.

Inclement weather policy

During wintry weather months, our rule is:

If the Little Rock Public Schools are closed for any part of a day, including a delayed opening, then Adventures in Learning will be closed all day. This is a safety measure due to the slick condition of the church parking lot. This policy will be listed on our website and an updated message will be placed on our office voice mail when those times occur.
